Editor's Message

A lot of people say, "Look, Bowne doesn't do anything for me, so why should I do anything in return?" The Yearbook, being a reflection of the school, is often dismissed as another standard school publication, designed to cover up the inadequacies and failures of the school. What we have attempted to do in Opus '71 is to present the school as it really is. When dealing with so many different people (as in the case of Bowne), we find there are all kinds of emotions and feelings floating about. Our photographers have worked long hours this year, getting pictures that express the moods of our school's students who differ so widely among themselves.

For those who are still interested in the traditional yearbook, we have retained such sections as the senior photos and the faculty and administration. Other areas however have changed enormously. Our senior activities section is totally different, now that we have pictures that capture the very essence of the activity covered. Our photo essay, with which Opus begins, likewise has preserved many of the images that make Bowne as unusual as it is typical of the type of institution it represents.

All in all, Yearbook is basically too good too be thrown in some musty corner with copies of your twelfth-year Regents textbooks. Let's just say that whatever you got out of Bowne you will see in this Yearbook. If you got nothing out of it, let the Yearbook be a reminder that institutions aren't strong enough to give you a meaningful experience in your development as an individual and that sometimes it is necessary to look in other directions. If you found Bowne a fun place, let the Yearbook be a reminder of the good times you have had, even as you remember the failure of Bowne to relate to others.

Have a beautiful life!

Our special thanks to: Uncle Joe for making this whole thing possible; to the Papiers, Finkelsteins, Langs, and Barushes for the use of their homes and for the food; to Mike Jacobs and Ken Goldwasser for helping with the photography; to Mrs. Graham for the use of 315; to Mrs. Husch, Miss DeMeo and the typing class; and to the guy downstairs for tolerating us that long.

AND THE FACULTY . . .

My dear '71 graduates:

Because you are my second graduating class at Bowne, I have had more opportunity to see you in the "variety of moods that people experience and share" than I did your schoolmates of '70.

While in high school, the '71 graduates of America have experienced more impact from world tensions than any group of high school students were asked to experience in the past. At Bowne, you have seen sincere efforts to involve young people more in the decision making process. Sometimes it has worked well, sometimes poorly. How can your place of business or your college consult you before making decisions? Certainly our consultative council (Fastpac) has tried to do so. You have also seen the growth of consultation in curriculum as we have developed our electives.

Sometimes your mood has been one of apathy, sometimes one of apparent concern for people, which is most heartening. You have learned to express yourselves, more effectively and less emotionally, as you have matured. I think you have found us (your faculty) very willing to "listen" as you did so.

Are we satisfied with our combined efforts? By no means — I am not, nor, I hope are you. But we are, I feel, united in our desire to change, where change is needed, without losing the beauties so briefly seen, so hard to grasp, which our search for genuine understanding through scholarship reveals.

I will be awaiting your letters from college and the world of work, for, as I have in my two years at Bowne, I will gain much for your school and your fellow students through continued communication with you. Please accept my affectionate best wishes for all of you, and my joint prayer, with you, for peace and warm human understanding in this troubled world.

Most sincerely

Roxee W. Joly

Room 315. The law finally caught up with the notorious "Opus Staff Gang" late yesterday afternoon, when a cachet of pornographic year book layouts was confiscated by customs agents here. Editors-in-chief Norman Finkelstein and Lewis Papier were last seen fleeing in the direction of Kennedy International Airport. When questioned, Mr. Michael Donlon, Yearbook Advisor declined comment, saying, "I am not responsible". Meanwhile, Fra Lang, Yearbook Leon '4.

WORLD ENDS.

The world ended today during period 7, when Mr. Howard Rachbach of Bowne's physical science dept mixed two unknown chemicals in the chemistry lab, saying "Duh, watch dis, Klass." Rachbach proceeded to mix two clear unknown chemicals as he exclaimed, "Duh coe do

LOCKERS UNSEAL HUNDREDS EXPIR

Boys' Gym: The boys' lockers were opened late yesterday afternoon, almost a flurry of protest from the radical fringe of Bowne H.S. "We'll get those long-hair freaks yet," said Mr. Ralph Kaplan, smilingly opened 453 lockers that have long gone unused.

Most of the dead were not easily identified due to rapid decay.

One of the more fortunate souls who survived the incident told of what he had experienced to this Chronicle reporter. "I... horrible: all of a sudden a green mi... Those in the back di... gagging and gasp... the poor devils... Knowing the (C

OBSERVER OFFICE BOMBED

HUGE CONSPIRACY REVEALED
BY STEWART KOENIG

The first floor was rocked today by an explosion of enormous power which totally devastated the famed John Bowne Observer newspaper office. The observer, had recently won the Pulitzer Prize for mediocrity in journalism.

Stewart Koenig, crusading boy editor, was unavailable for comment, yet reliable sources in the English dept. reported that Koenig, along with the observer's crusading faculty advisor, Isaac Bleckman had gone into hiding after receiving numerous threats from just about everybody in the school.

Dean Michael Russo has uncovered evidence of a school-wide conspiracy which reaches up through the Bowne hierarchy to the highest of administrative posts. Its goal, claims Dean Russo was the complete annihilation of the Observer and its staff. However, Russo has been stymied in his attempts to discover the ringleaders (cont.)

Roxee Calls For Calm

REVOLT SPREADS TO GYM

MAGID SILENT

Special To The Cretin Chronicle

John Bowne H.S. June 29
"Dogs wouldn't eat this meat!" So cried an enraged yet unknown Bowne student as he hurled his plate of lasagna and peas at Mrs. Pressberger, head dietician. In the riot that followed, which required a full squad of teacher aides to quell an ever-growing mob, there were three casualties and as yet untold amount of damage to Bowne's scenic lunchroom. Though the incident seems to have reached a state of complete calm, reports of other outbreaks are still coming into Principal Roxee Joly's office.

Conflict Spreads To Gym

Reliable sources now indicate that the conflict has now spread to the boy's gym. As one of our sources indicated, Steve Samsky had ordered his 7th-period gym class to do 100 push-ups when one student burst onto the scene screaming out a report of what had occurred in the lunchroom. Immediately the students took up the cry and charged the place, tearing Samsky to pieces. Meanwhile, reporters are attempting to...

WEISS ELECTROCUTED

Mr. Joel Weiss met today with an untimely demise when he attempted to plug himself into a wall socket in front of his debate and discussion class. Witnesses report that Weiss had been in a state of great confusion in days previous to his liquidation due to increased demands put upon him by his added duties as audio visual squad faculty advisor. Crying "look I'm a movie projector," Weiss proceeded to swallow the plug.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

This week's Feature:
Matthew Altschuler

Many of our readers (well, a few at least) have written in, wondering what ever happened to that beloved music chairman, Happy Matt Altschuler since his mysterious disappearance late last term. Mrs. Alice "G-d" Gross, when asked to comment upon Matt's sudden absence, was openly hostile. Her actions lead this reporter to suspect foul play in this affair. Reports indicate that...
